

Table of Contents

Foreword (by Béla Mester and Rafał Smoczyński)

Comparative Approaches

Gábor Gángó: Stanisław Brzozowski and Die Neue Zeit

Andrzej Gniazdowski: The Idea of Liberty in the Political Philosophy of Aurel Kolnai

Borbála Jász: Polish and Hungarian Parallels in Socialist Architecture Theory

Case Studies from Polish Intellectual History

Urszula Idziak: The Polish Case. Ultra-orientalism or the Anamorphosis of Introducing Oneself

Zbigniew Mikolejko: The Church in Poland – National or Universal? The Drama of a Certain Dilemma

Marek Jerzy Minakowski – Rafał Smoczyński: Working Notes on the Historical Evolution of the Late 1700's Polish Elites

Rafał Mišta: Cultural Evolution Perspectives on Elites – Illustrated with Modern Polish Examples

Trends and Portraits from the Hungarian History of Philosophy

Péter András Varga: Who Were the First Modern Professional Philosophers in Hungary? The Authors of the Journal Magyar Philosophiai Szemle (1882–1891)

Péter Turbucz: Why is not Bernhard Alexander One of the Best-Known Hungarian Philosophers? Possible Answers

Bettina Szabados: The Philosopher as a(n Anti-)Hero. The Literary Representations of Georg Lukács

Eutopias and Dystopias from Hungary

Gábor Kovács: The Intellectual as a Brahmin. Béla Hamvas and the Temptation of Neo-Traditionalism: The Utopia of the Golden Age

Béla Mester: Pessimist Hungarian Utopias in the Interwar Period and after the Second World War

Gábor Kovács: Direct Producers, Radical Needs and the Intellectuals – the Critique of 'Existing Socialism' and the Utopia of an Alternative Socialism. Two Famous Books from the Late Sixties

Gábor Kovács: „The time is out of joint...” – The Idea of an Alternate History in the Uchronia of István Bibó

Index of Names

Summaries